To whom it may concern,

I am writing this letter to express my interest in the internship position under Natalie Maridueno and David Dobrik.

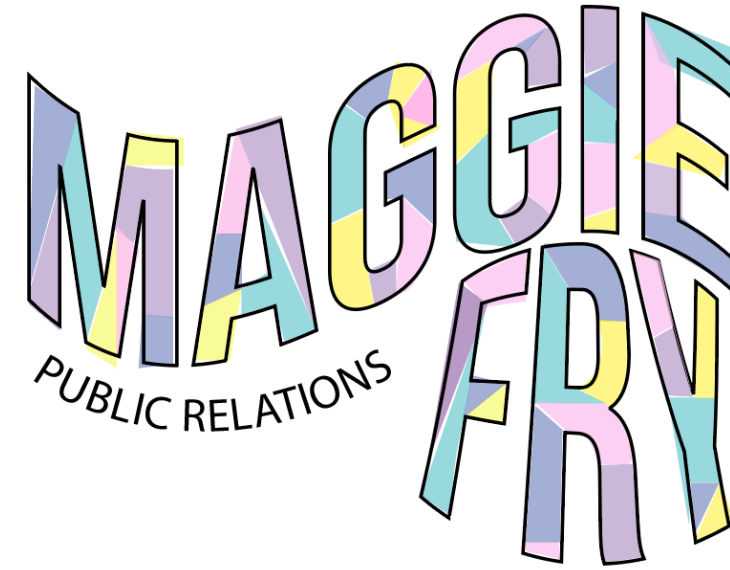

As I am currently majoring in Public Relations and minoring in Business Marketing and Management at my university, my intended career has always been to work within the entertainment industry as a publicist or manager for an artist or YouTuber. This internship aligns perfectly with the exact career path that I am pursuing and it will therefore have a colossal impact on the trajectory of my professional goals and will equip with me the vital tools to succeed in my career.

I am from North Carolina and attend a university in Alabama, but I have strived and prepared to intern in Los Angeles for as long as I can remember. I plan to move to Los Angeles for the next semester, summer, and/or however long my services are wanted to complete the internship. I believe that my willingness to pick up and move across the country as early as next week for this job shows not only how much of my heart is invested in this, but also how much I both appreciate and invest my full effort into the position. Working in the entertainment industry using my skills in communications and marketing mean everything to me and I am ready for the chance to make a positive impact to you as my employer.

Learning as an intern underneath the figures I look up to will be one of the most educational and beneficial experiences of my life and will help shape my future. I have been hoping and fighting for an opportunity like this, as it will push me in the right direction of chasing my dream. I am undoubtedly that I am the right person for this job and that I will be an unimagined success.

Enclosed is my resume for your review. I ask for the opportunity to discuss with you how my skills and strengths can best serve you and thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Maggie Fry
